

Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran Church
Conversations With God

I have often heard people say, "I don't do anything to change the world around me; because what difference will I make?" Margaret Mead wrote: "Never doubt that a small group, of thoughtful citizens (Christians) can change the world."

Isn't it true Father that the painter will paint the scene, the poet will sing it, and the historian will record it? But according to Your Word; Christians can change it all, with Your help?

Yes we can get hurt, but what is the alternative? If we let hurt stop us it will create distance and eventually we will be alone.

Help your followers not to keep their distance from the world around them. Give us understanding that distance creates separation, which turns into hopelessness and darkness.

The fate of humanity lies in the truths of Your Son, and the courage of His followers. Give us the courage to feel the heat of daring in Your call of us. Help us realize that change lies in us personally, not just in the other person. "Be One, Win One."

Help us be the Christians that change the world around them. It does just take one!

Your son,
Larry D

February 2006